Concord, CA USA — Formtek, Inc. today announced an alliance agreement with Alfresco Software, Inc., the leader in open source enterprise content management (ECM). The Agreement establishes Formtek as an Alfresco Gold Systems Integration Partner.

Formtek has over twenty years of experience implementing ECM solutions in some of the most demanding environments, including aerospace, defense, engineering and manufacturing. Formtek's expertise includes meeting the complex requirements associated with managing engineering drawings and other technical information. With this partnership, Formtek's Professional Services group will assist clients with implementing Alfresco's open source enterprise content management software solution to meet sophisticated document and records management requirements.

"For many organizations, their drawings, technical documentation and other records represent their most important information assets" said Dennis M. Scanlon, Formtek's President and Chief Operating Officer. "For organizations, both large and small, that desire an open source ECM solution, Formtek has the experience and implementation methodology to help them securely and reliably control these critical assets."

"Alfresco is delighted to be working with such an experienced and professional company as Formtek" said John Powell, CEO and co-founder, Alfresco Software. "Formtek will bring their successful track record in implementing ECM in the industrial market segment to the table, and we plan to work very closely with them to provide our mutual customers with an ECM solution that both meets complex document and records management requirements, and is also sensibly priced."
